#1 Sitemap can't be fetch

What Happened

After a thorough investigation by our senior engineering team, we discovered that a misconfigured security rule at our network edge was intermittently and incorrectly challenging requests from Googlebot when it attempted to access the `sitemap.xml` file for your client's store. This was a rare and complex issue, which explains why the sitemap file itself appeared perfectly valid, yet Google's crawlers were unable to read it consistently.

The Resolution

Our engineering team has adjusted the security protocols and specifically whitelisted the full range of Googlebot's IP addresses and user agents for your client's domain. This ensures that Google has clear, uninterrupted access to the native `sitemap.xml` file.

We have confirmed from our end that the block has been lifted and the sitemap is now fully accessible.

Next Steps for You

To get your client's site indexing correctly, please take the following steps:

- 1. Remove the temporary sitemap: In your client's Google Search Console, you can now remove the sitemap generated by the third-party app (`/tools/sitemap-builder/sitemap.xml`). It's no longer needed and keeping things clean is always best practice.
- 2. Resubmit the native sitemap: Please resubmit the primary sitemap: <https://nordicmobility.se/sitemap.xml> .
- 3. Monitor the results: It may take Google 24-72 hours to recrawl and process the sitemap, but you should now see the status change from "Couldn't fetch" to "Success" and see the discovered URLs begin to populate.

Paul, we deeply value your partnership and the expertise you bring to your clients. We are committed to providing you with the high level of technical support you deserve. Thank you again for bringing this to our attention and working with us to solve it.

#1 Sitemap can't be fetched

I wanted to follow up regarding your concern about Google not reading your sitemap. Based on what we reviewed:

Shopify's native sitemap is available here:

<https://nordicmobility.se/sitemap.xml>

There's also a third-party app sitemap at:

<https://nordicmobility.se/tools/sitemap-builder/sitemap.xml>

At this point, the recommended action is to ensure that only the native Shopify sitemap is submitted in Google Search Console, as the app-generated one may cause errors during crawling.

That said, I understand your request for a deeper technical review, such as checking server-side logs of Googlebot requests. Unfortunately, Shopify Support Advisors don't have access to request logs for external crawlers like Googlebot, since this falls outside of Shopify's native support scope.

If you'd like further investigation please contact Google. But it is clear that the third party app is the reason why it is not reading by Google. This is out of our scope in terms of third-party or other platform. Please understand our limitation.

In the meantime, please try:

Removing the app sitemap from Search Console.

Keeping only <https://nordicmobility.se/sitemap.xml>.

Resubmitting and allowing Google a few days to retry crawling.

Let me know if you'd like me to share a clear step-by-step guide for resubmitting your sitemap in Search Console.

What are BUNIONS?

Bunions affect an estimated 23% of people aged 18-65, and 35.7% of people over 65 (source). Medically known as hallux valgus, a bunion is a bony lump at the base of the big toe. Bunions occur when the bones in the front of the foot move out of place, and slowly begin pushing towards the toes. Bunion pain is very uncomfortable, and foot health can make all areas of life difficult, making shoes with a comfortable fit around your bunions vitally important.

The bunion bump can cause you pain when walking in normal shape shoes from the extra pressure. Shoes can also hurt your joints and make it hard to balance if you have arthritis. Calla footwear has been designed for bunion sufferers, with plenty of extra cushioning, arch support, and room in the footbed, using soft leather for comfort, and providing plenty of sizes to make sure your shoe is comfortable. Our fashionable bunion-friendly shoes range includes formal dress shoes, loafers, pretty pumps, dressy high heels, cute sneakers, flat sandals, and designer heeled sandals. We also provide wide-toe box shoes for those who need extra comfort, and adjustable straps so you can find the perfect fitting shoe for your foot pain.

What are BUNIONS?

Bunions affect an estimated 30% of women in the UK, with a recent study suggesting the risk for over 65s is 35% (source). Medically known as hallux valgus, a bunion is a bony lump located at the base of the big toe. Bunions occur when the bones in the front of the foot move out of place, and slowly begin pushing your big toe towards the second toe.

Our shoes help to minimise your bunion pain, offering extra stability and support, with adjustable straps to relief pressure, supportive soles, lightweight materials, arch support, and a wide forefoot area.

Calla are the best stylish comfy shoes on the market, designed with a wider toe box to be bunion friendly, making walking more comfortable, and putting less pressure on your toe joint. If walking is less painful, you'll do it more, which is better for your overall health (source).
